In the beginning

Typical of the school designs of the 1900-1930 period throughout Canada, this building has subtle Italian Renaissance influences, such as the round-arched stone entryways, stone string course at the first level, stone lintels, and sills, and the light cornice with corner brackets.

In addition . . .

The section on the back of the school was added to house more classrooms and a gymnasium.
